

THE JEWISH VOICE

AND OPINION

Promoting Classical Judaism

November 2008

Vol. 22 • No. 2

Cheshvan 5769

Cross River Bank Opens in Teaneck

On Monday, Nov 3, Cross River Bank, the area's newest community financial institution, held its grand opening event at its new branch at 885 Teaneck Road in Teaneck.

The entire community was invited to the festivities, which included a complimentary kosher dinner provided by Main Event Catering and special prizes throughout the evening.

In recognition of elections the next day, Barack Obama and Sarah Palin impersonators were on hand to meet and greet, and take pictures with the crowd.

One quarter of one percent (.0025) of the proceeds of accounts opened that first evening was donated by Cross River Bank to the Center for Food Action in Englewood.

"There has never been a better time for consumers and local businesses to keep their accounts local, in a bank that is small enough to know them, but big enough to provide them with world-class banking services," said Cross River Bank chairman Gilles Gade. "For example, we are offering very competitive rates on our banking products, and even in this tough economy, we are approving numerous loans to customers on a monthly basis."

In addition to checking and savings accounts, Cross River Bank will offer a wide range of financial services for residential and commercial borrowers, including consumer loans, small business loans and lines of credit. The bank is also offering a nine-month, fully FDIC-insured certificate of deposit at a four-percent interest rate APY.

For more information on Cross River Bank, visit www.crossriverbank.com or call (877)-552-7255. Cross River Bank is a member of the FDIC.

cross river bank